Fun Facts about Seahorses

A seahorse is a fish and has gills as any fish does. However the seahorse is the only fish with a neck!

Many seahorses can change colour to hide from predators.

Seahorses hatch from eggs and live most of their lives on their own.

Seahorses live in the same area most of their lives. Male seahorses spend their lives in an area about the size of a teacher's desk

There are over 50 species of seahorses.

A seahorse does not have scales like most other fish. Instead seahorses have skin like eels.
